To increase the level cap in Dragonball Xenoverse 2, follow these steps: First, go to Whis in the Bamboo Forest and talk to them. You'll need to bring a parfait from the Item Shop to get their attention. After that, they will unlock your level cap and give you an option to increase it, but only up to a certain limit of 5 levels at a time, so be prepared to go back and do it again later. However, some players report that since the latest update, visiting Whis is no longer required to reach high levels. You can now simply level up your characters through regular gameplay without needing to interact with Whis or bring him parfaits. paraphrased text here To avoid tedious grinding in Dragon Ball Xenoverse 2, consider using the Alternate Leveling Method with NPC Tosok or purchasing TP Medals. If you've downloaded the free DLC update, trading Zeni to Tosok will allow you to reach level 80 and higher levels up to 99 by giving him TP Medals. Acquiring these medals is relatively easy through completing Expert Missions (EMs) and Parallel Quests (PQs), which reward both Zeni and TP Medals. You can also earn them by selling items from PQ rewards, participating in campaigns, or purchasing them with real money. Those without the DLC update will need to complete Main Story mode, unlock PQs and EMs, and play Expert Missions 16 and 17 against SSGSS Goku and Vegeta to level up and gain TP Medals. The I Want Money! Wish and I Want Medals! Wish can also be used repeatedly to acquire large amounts of Zeni and TP Medals, respectively. For an even faster method, you can use the I Want to Grow! wish multiple times after collecting Dragon Balls, or Guru's unlocked wishes that include the I Want to Grow More! which gives 3 levels but is only usable once, ideally at level 96 to reach level 99 directly. Another option is using the 40 Ton Weights Super Soul in Expert Missions 16 and 17 offline, doubling your experience points earned. Guru in Xenoverse 2 has a unique system where he unlocks levels in batches of five, so you'll need to visit him at least four times to access all the levels. To unlock Guru's missions and get the Distorted Time Egg, which removes the level cap for your characters, you'll have to complete 14 defense missions for Guru. This not only allows you to increase a single character's level but also applies to all your other characters as well, making it easier to level them up using high-level characters in their profiles. After removing the level cap, you can use a high-level character to gain XP and level up other characters, which can be very beneficial for progressing through the game. This is particularly useful when trying to reach a specific level or milestone with your main character. Guru's missions offer not only the removal of the level cap but also access to attribute, experience, and extra wish options. One of these wishes includes "I Want to Grow More," which players may find appealing. For some players who encounter issues entering Guru's House, simply saving and restarting the game can resolve the problem.
